Command Choices: Whiz

For Leon Tucker's file, Oct 30, 2026. Lane: JoustLine canon and narrative.

1. Team size: two cadets

Cadet 1, writer: drafts JoustLine scenes and dialogue from the canon docs, on its own feature branch.

Cadet 2, canon checker: tests every script against Story Bible v0.4 and CANON_CHECK.md before it reaches me.

2. Why two, not more

Writing errors do not crash anything, so they spread quietly into cutscenes. With two cadets I can read every line myself. With three I would be approving canon I have not read. I would only ask for a third after a clean week with no corrections.

3. What we will make

Step 1: I personally close WORLD.md and CANON_CHECK.md on whiz/story-bible.

Step 2: the cadets write the JoustLine script pack, so datasheet and Pizzapan can build cutscenes without stopping to ask what a character would say.

4. How we depend on each other

They need clear written intent and a "done when" for every script. I need them for writing volume. You need me to make sure nothing off-canon reaches you.

5. How to judge me

Every report includes commit links. Nothing ships that breaks canon. Main and deletes stay with you. If a cadet misses, that is on me.